BY MASTER SPAS®

“Recovery is an important part of an athlete’s schedule but it should be a part of everyone’s schedule. You need time to recharge and recover from everything that is going on in your life.”

— Michael Phelps, 23-Time Gold Medalist

A photograph of Michael Phelps, a professional swimmer, sitting on the edge of a hot tub. He is shirtless, wearing dark shorts, and has a beard and a bun hairstyle. He is looking down at his hands, which are clasped together. The hot tub is white with a wooden base. The background shows a lush green lawn and some foliage. The name "MICHAEL PHELPS" is overlaid in large, semi-transparent letters at the bottom of the image.

Unlock the Power of Cold Water Immersion Therapy

Cold water immersion provides a range of health benefits, whether you are an athlete or want to have more energy. It's been used for centuries as a way to promote health and well-being. You can use cold water to reduce inflammation, improve circulation, boost immunity, and enhance mental clarity.

IMPROVES RECOVERY AND PERFORMANCE

Athletes have long used ice baths as a way to reduce soreness, manage inflammation, and maintain range of motion. It can also be used to develop mental toughness and discipline, which can help you during a tough workout or event. You can train harder and more frequently, leading to improved performance.

REDUCES INFLAMMATION

Cold water immersion is known to reduce inflammation throughout the body, which can help to alleviate pain and discomfort. When the body is exposed to cold water, it constricts blood vessels and slows down blood flow, which can help to reduce swelling and inflammation in the muscles and joints. People with chronic conditions such as arthritis and fibromyalgia can use cold tubs to help manage swelling and pain.

SUPPORTS IMMUNITY

Cold water immersion can help boost your immune system. Exposure to cold water stimulates the production of white blood cells, which fight off infections and diseases.

Additionally, cold water immersion can help to reduce stress levels, further boosting your immunity.

ENHANCES MENTAL CLARITY

Tired of feeling tired or dealing with brain fog? Exposure to cold water has been shown to increase the production of endorphins, which are the body's natural feel-good chemicals. This can help to reduce stress and anxiety, improve focus and concentration, and promote a sense of calm and relaxation.

IMPROVES CIRCULATION

Soaking in a cold water tub can improve your circulation, which can promote healing and reduce the risk of cardiovascular disease. When the body is exposed to cold water, blood vessels constrict and then dilate, which can help to improve blood flow and oxygen delivery to the body's tissues and organs.
